AVERAGE PRICE OF SEEDS IN TRADE HELD STEADY IN JULY-DECEMBER 1975

The overall average price of all seed exported during the 6 months ending December 31, 1975, was about the same as that of a year earlier. Sharp gains in prices of vegetable seed about offset general declines in other types. The decline in prices of nonvegetable seed is in line with recent commodity price trends. Bumper seed crops in some seed-producing clover and annual ryegrass. Prices of forage seed exported also were lower. Expanded foreign seed output and various degrees of economic stagnation and uncertainty abroad contributed to the curtailment in exports. Lower exports to European Community countries accounted for most of the decline.

Volume as well as prices of vegetable seed shipments increased. Growing recognition abroad of the superior quality of U.S. seed probably is responsible for most of the expansion in vegetable seed shipments. Western Europe accounted for most of the increase, with only Italy showing a significant decline.

Both quantity and prices of seed rice exports rose, with increased shipments to Canada, Brazil, and Belize more than offsetting declines to Sweden and Guatemala.

Bean seed exports almost doubled, with several West European countries accounting for most of the expansion. Pea seed shipments, on the other hand, declined significantly because of smaller takings of a few West European countries and Mexico.

Possible trade errors in reporting or recording exports of corn and grain sorghum seed may have distorted seed export totals. Thus, there is no discussion here of any totals that include these two seeds.

countries, especially Denmark, and lower demand in many parts of the world account for the downturn.

Forage seed exports declined. Lower shipments of most types especially those of bluegrass and perennial ryegrass more than offset expanded movement of ladino
